Part B: [REDACTED]'s commentary after receiving clairvoyant and empathic feedback from [REDACTED] following procedure

i(a). The subject is standing in a forested location. There is an overpowering scent of wet earth which appears to be the predominant trigger for the memory. The subject has a vivid memory of plant material and grass (not identifiable) brushing against his legs. The sky is overcast. There is a clear impression that the subject is still of a pre-adolescent age in this memory (estimated to be between 6 and 12 years).

i(b). The subject is anticipating that it will rain soon. The subject is experiencing muted emotional relief. There is a conscious suppression of an overriding feeling of obligation. The subject seems to believe that he should be feeling sad.

ii(a). The subject is standing outside of a concrete building. Visual imagery of the surrounding area is indistinct, but there is an impression that the grounds of the building are meticulously well attended to. It is late afternoon.

An adolescent woman (Caucasian descent, blond hair, indistinct eyes, slender build, estimated age: 14-18) passes by the subject. She smiles at him. The subject notices she is wearing corrective braces on her teeth. A mid-sized blue car pulls up to the curb and a door opens. A man (indistinct, estimated age: 25-80) opens the door.

ii(b). The subject feels a vague emotional insecurity over the girl's attention to him. The subject feels a suppressed sense of sexual desire. The subject mentally assures himself that she has expressed an interest in him, but feels hesitant. There is a sense of comfortable familiarity as the car arrives. The subject ego vocalizes the words "the good doctor."

iii(a). No visual feedback. The subject attempts to focus clearly on the present. There are several ego-vocalized sentences similar to ones from Report 002 [iv(a, c)]. To paraphrase:

"This memory is falsified. It is a result of sensory deprivation. I am Hadrian Evans. This shall become clear soon and I shall regain control of my faculties."

iii(b). The subject focuses on the physiological act of opening his eyes. There is, as expected, no bodily action.

iii(c). The subject ego-vocalizes repeatedly:

"Preparation counteracts betrayal Rationality counteracts madness" iii(d). The subject feels an acute sense of despair, contrary to the expected relief of his meditative efforts.

iv(a). Visual feedback is reestablished. The subject is in an unknown room. Details are obscured by a haze of fine, soft white powder. There is a repetitive red flicker discernible through the haze. [REDACTED] indicates a confusion as to whether or not this is taking place inside or outside.

iv(b). The subject feels a sense of anticipation and dread. There is a calm shocked acceptance that something that he estimates to be incomprehensibly terrible has transpired.

iv(c). The subject hears voices with no discernible source. They repeatedly ask if he's okay.

iv(d). The subject recalls reaching to the ground and picking up a handful of dust. There is strong detail on the sensation of how it sifts through his fingers. It has a very fine, crumbly texture to it. He pauses as he feels a lump. There is an uneasy and immediate assumption on his part that it is a human tooth.

v(a). The subject consciously cuts off this chain of memories. There is an increasing paranoid awareness that indicates he might be developing cognizance of the procedure with [REDACTED]. He very clearly and directly ego-vocalizes the words "Who are you?"

vi(a). [REDACTED] CALLS FOR AN END TO THE SESSION.

vi(b). [REDACTED]

vii(a). The subject is concentrating on the image of what appears to be a snake with two raised avian wings protruding from it's back. No other feedback relating to this image was received before the cut-off.
